

A customer can purchase multiple tickets and multiple products from the concession stand.

Each ticket will have a ticket price and one movie/movie time/movie title associated with it, but each movie can have multiple tickets.

Each movie will only be playing in only one theater, so there is a one to one relationship between movie and theater. The seats available in a theater will depend on how many tickets have been sold, so I have connected them as well.